Who are Disconnected Youth?

- Individuals between the ages of 14 and 24 who are low income and either homeless, in foster care, involved in the juvenile justice system, unemployed, or not enrolled in or at risk of dropping out of an educational institution.
- Interest in pilots that target very high-need or underserved populations.

Examples of Potential Pilots

- Integrated enrollment and case management organization: assess risk factors in order to better target appropriate services to the highest users of multiple systems.
- Coordinated approach to serving youth involved in multiple systems: create joint performance goals, integrate services for vulnerable youth and their families, and align eligibility requirements that currently lead to service gaps.
- Reducing drug addiction and incarceration: workforce development agency partners with substance-abuse treatment providers and local business that will guarantee part-time or full-time work experiences to recovering addicts.

Performance Measurement & Evaluation

Required for all pilots:

- Outcome measures and interim indicators in education and employment domains
- Additional measures and indicators in other domains (criminal justice, health, well-being) as appropriate
- Reliable administrative data on individuals under these domains
- Cooperation in any Federal evaluation

Performance Measurement & Evaluation

Stronger candidates:

- Establish baselines and comparison groups to measure progress
- Demonstrate expertise to manage pilot using strong data analysis

Strongest candidates:

- Use strategies or interventions shown effective in rigorous evaluation
- Incorporate rigorous impact and process evaluation

Key Questions for Stakeholders

JOHAN UVIN, ED
KATHY STACK, OMB

Key Questions: Successful Partnerships?

- What are leading examples of existing intergovernmental partnerships that have been able to create the infrastructure and conditions needed to implement and scale what works and curtail inefficient activities that are not producing results?
- What are the key features of such partnerships? How can we distinguish partnerships that are likely to achieve better outcomes from partnerships that include all the right partners but are less likely to get better results?
- What successful outcome-focused partnerships involve philanthropy, and what factors made them successful?

Key Questions: Application Process?

- What are the benefits and drawbacks of the solicitation process described?
- Does the preliminary application content include the right information to distinguish the top candidates?
- What will be the greatest challenges for communities to complete applications in this timeframe and what could be done to mitigate them? What assistance or clarification could the Federal agencies provide?

Key Questions: Measurement and Evaluation?

- What reliable, high-value data sources could be used to improve quality and lower the cost of performance measurement and evaluation?
- What types of partners could help pilot jurisdictions, at a reasonable cost, set up strong data systems and performance management processes, and design rigorous evaluations that help pilot communities learn what works and is cost-effective?
- Are there other approaches to measuring outcomes and incorporating accountability and learning that we should consider?

Key Questions: Funds?

- Will a summer application process allow you to effectively utilize 2014 funds in your pilots?
- Could you improve the effectiveness of a 2014 pilot by adding additional programs to your pilot in future years?

Key Questions: Criteria?

- Are these sound principles for developing selection criteria?
- What should be added or changed?

Key Questions: Technical Assistance?

- What specific challenges will States, communities and tribes face in planning and implementing effective pilots that could be addressed through technical assistance?
- What expertise is the Federal government uniquely qualified to provide?
- What external organizations and experts are most knowledgeable and can offer solutions to address these needs and challenges?
- What philanthropic and other private sector organizations can help finance or facilitate knowledge transfer?
